

THE FACES OF TODAY'S DRUG USERS MIGHT SURPRISE YOU.

TRADER JOE'S,
BE AN INDUSTRY LEADER.
GET YOUR MEAT OFF
ANTIBIOTICS.

Overuse of antibiotics is causing them to lose their ability to treat lethal infections. Surprisingly, 80 percent of antibiotics sold in the U.S. are used on farm animals, enabling them to grow faster and tolerate crowded and unsanitary industrial farms. Like other retailers, Trader Joe's sells meat from animals raised on drugs, ultimately contributing to this public health crisis. Join over half a million consumers who have already asked them to be an industry leader and stop selling meat from animals raised on antibiotics. Your voice makes a difference in the latest war on drugs. Call Trader Joe's now and say, "No more meat on drugs!" at 800 221 2063.

ConsumersUnion
POLICY & ACTION FROM CONSUMER REPORTS

CALL TRADER JOE'S AND SAY, "NO MORE MEAT ON DRUGS!" AT 800 221 2063

Find even more ways to help at NotInMyFood.org or text "MEAT" to 30644