2	Bill	King	Cleveland	GA	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, In the past year, I have paid zero bank/financial institution fees. Spend less than you make/deposit. These fees are a way for banks to hold customers accountable for overspending from their accounts. They do make money from these fees. While I am not opposed to a reduction in the amount of these fees, I strongly oppose the elimination banking fees. Regards, Bill King	$0 Fees
3	Karen	Snowden	Yukon	OK	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, In the past year, I have paid ZERO fees to financial institutions because I'm smart enough to do math. I think financial institutions are completely within their rights to charge fees to people who chose to live irresponsibly. I have been very poor, literally paycheck to paycheck. I never ever had those fees even then. Banks shouldn't have to loan money for free and too often people do a bunch of overdrafts then change banks. Personal responsibility is the key to financial success. Regards, Karen Snowden	$0 Fees

5	Cindy	Kelton	Kyle	TX	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, In the past year, I have paid $0 at any bank. We are very fortunate, but it was not always this easy. Growing up my mother raised four kids with no help from my father, nor from any of his family. Each month Mom had to decide which bill was left out. The late fees were killing her; but when an IRS center was in the process of being built in Austin, she was lucky enough to get hired on. From that point on things improved. My husband and I had years of struggling due to a job that fluctuated and income. Never knowing in advance, we got behind. Bank of America charged a number of fees. Things got so bad we could only pay doctor and dental bills just $5/ month. We struggled to get caught up and even managed to start saving once our children were out on their own. My medical bills were heavy due to years of my condition not being determined until I finally found my current doctor. We have had an easy time of it once we were able to work out a system of what to pay and when. These 'junk' fees are merely a way for banks to make more money off me and countless other bank customers. Many of whom are still struggling. It's time for the CFPB to protect consumers and our economy, and take action to reduce and eliminate unnecessary banking fees. Regards, Cindy Kelton	$0 Fees
6	James	Schreiner	Alamogordo	NM	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, In the past year, I have paid $0 at either of the two credit unions I bank with. In fact, I have been paid interest (albeit, not much) and given free checks. Banks have a right to make reasonable profits and people who abuse their accounts by writing/floating checks when they (should) know that there is not enough money to cover the check should be charged. I bank responsibly and I don't want to be charged for other people's failure/refusal to do so. BTW, I have absolutely no association with the banking industry other than being a customer. Regards, James Schreiner	$0 Fees

It's time for the CFPB to protect consumers and our economy, and take action to reduce and eliminate unnecessary banking fees. I don't pay bank fees. Anybody that manages their personal finances appropriately should not pay bank fees. Consumer Reports should be focusing on personal financial education for those who need it rather than legislation to protect the ignorant, uneducated, and self-inflicted stupidity from themselves. Banks are no different than many other businesses. They are going to prey on the uneducated, ignorant, and those who practice self-inflicted stupidity by poor decision-making and lack of self discipline. If you can successfully get people to make good decisions you will have no need for legislative advocacy such as this. Americans and Consumer Reports are great at treating the symptom while ignoring the underlying problem. We will never be able to legislate everything that those who need to be protected from themselves will require. So instead of making excuses for those people, let's instead hold them accountable for their own self-inflicted financial hardships and offer education in sound financial management, good decision-making, and financial discipline. Regards, Kent Squires	$0 Fees

25	Kent	Payne	Princeton	NJ	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, In the past year, I have paid less than $50 [In the early years of Automatic Teller Machines, ATMs, only one bank could charge a person for using an ATM operated by another bank. That was the bank which issued the person's card. The basis for that fee was that the bank that operated the ATM would be charging the card issuing bank a fee. This seemed fair and was predictable as one could easily know one's own bank's fee structure for use of other banks' ATM machines. For far too many years now both the bank issuing the ATM card and the other bank whose machine is used can charge the ATM user a fee for use of an ATM not operated by the ATM card issuing bank. This is wrong and has been for lo these many years. Either the bank whose machine is used or the ATM card issuing bank should be able to charge a fee but not both banks. Also, that one fee should be a fee the amount of which is made known to any ATM user before use of the other bank's ATM machine! It is time the banks be stopped from double dipping on ATM fees!] These 'junk' fees are merely a way for banks to make more money off me and countless other bank customers. 66	Philip	Sibilia	Plainville	MA	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, In the past year, I have paid less than $50 Bluestone Bank. Often these fees are hidden in a laundry list of fees that are distributed. In my case, the bank I was with merged with another bank. The new, merged entity instituted a charge for a minimum balance that my previous bank did not have. I don't recall receiving any notice about the change and the new fees were not listed on the website. I assume I may have overlooked these charges due to the many emails and letters about the merger and systems integration. I find it ironic that this bank and others like it offer minimal interest for holding your money but have significant charges for things like minimum balances. In my case I have received only $5.41 in interest over the course of 2021, but was charged $20 during the same period for a balance that fell below their set minimum. This is an account that has minimal activity so their primary "cost" is holding my balance. Talk about a money grab! These 'junk' fees are merely a way for banks to make more money off me and countless other bank customers. 283	Vivian	Oaks	Beaver	PA	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, In the past year, I have paid less than $50 Those with the most to lose are the ones that end up losing. If you have no money, how can you pay fees? We spent years living paycheck to paycheck and I always worried about the money in the bank. There was never enough to cover the bills, but if I tried to pay them and didn't do my math right, it only made matters worse to have charges places on top of what I already owed. It's a never-ending cycle of greed by the banks and taking it to the little guy that couldn't afford it. Also, having a minimum amount in an account to avoid fees is like stealing from those who can least afford it. I was finally able to find a bank that didn't do that! These 'junk' fees are merely a way for banks to make more money off me and countless other bank customers. I was able to keep this to a minimum having learned over the years some of the true hidden costs. The single largest hidden fee was BOA taking the money out of my account when an online banking check was issued instead of when it was cashed or deposited. This would at times, cause me to use my line of credit which would accrue additional interest from the day the check was written till the check cleared, in at least 1 case this was over 3 months. I found out it was up to the account holder to request the account to be set up differently. Who knew? Another example is transfer of funds from the LOC to the checking account starts interest accruing immediately yet paying down the LOC will take up to 3 days before it is credited, causing extra days of interest. These 'junk' fees and hidden policies are merely a way for banks to make more money off me and countless other bank customers. Depositors who had low balances in their accounts were often hit with insufficient funds penalties ($20). This was intentional. I usually got slapped with this penalty once every other month, money which I could not afford to lose. There was also a fee against the minimum balance. Total dishonesty and there was nothing one could do to prevent this except move to a bank which didn't use these methods, IF one could be found. Regards, ray hooper	Less than $50

657	Stephen	DeHart	Spring	TX	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, In the past year, I have paid less than $50 to Wells Fargo--- However, back when I was in financial straits, checks hitting my account to be paid were processed ahead of checks depositing into the account, even when the dates were such that deposits were dated prior to charges. This caused overdraft/NSF fees which perpetuated my time in financial straits, and damaged my credit rating. I have since recovered, but America is full of struggling families and individuals who cannot afford being tapped by the bank at the bottom of the month, just because the bank claims a fee for its own convenience as a matter of policy. If the banks postponed their greed, they would make more money, as their customers could work themselves out of dire straits, and move on to financing homes and vehicles, to the benefit of the banks, the customers, and the overall economy. These 'junk' fees are merely a way for banks to make more money off me and countless other bank customers. I was assessed a late fee for my Dec. mortgage payment which is automatically deducted from my account. I had to change accounts because of a hacking attempt and thought the bank would change the withdrawal for the payment to my new account, but that didn't happen. The bank charged me a $35 late fee and reversed it at the time. (12/21) Then, in Feb., 2022, the bank charged me the late fee again. When I inquired, I was told it was for the late payment in Dec. The bank again agreed to reverse the fee, but I feel I will have to watch carefully as the charge may be put through again. These 'junk' fees are merely a way for banks to make more money off me and countless other bank customers. 737	Eddie	Galarza	East Hartford	CT	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, In the past year, I have paid $50 - 100 American Eagle Federal Credit Union. I am on SSD/SSI disability fixed income. If my balance is low and not enough to cover payment on my debit/credit cards, the bank will still let it through so they can cash in on overdraft fees. I know they have the capability to reject a payment if my funds are not sufficient which I would prefer they did. But they allow the card charge against my account to incur an overdraft fee. If I had smaller billpays scheduled, I will incur overdraft fees for each additional charge. Once half my social security check was taken away from me as soon as it was deposited into my account. Had they blocked the additional charges against my account, my card would not work but I would be at peace with that because I would not have five or six overdraft fees in rapid succession. They do this knowing they can rackup substantial fees from low income households like me who struggle to keep a balance on a fixed income. Another trick they do is if I have several bill pays scheduled. They will withdraw the money by billpay amounts in descending order. For instance, if I have a balance of $200 dollars and I have bill pays of 50, 75, 150. Even if the payments were made in the order I have described, they will charge the $150 first so they can charge overdraft fees for the $75 and 50 instead of 50 and 75 in that order. The order they charge my account is not made according to the time of day they were made but in the order that maximizes their overdraft fees. These 'junk' fees are merely a way for banks to make more money off me and countless other bank customers. It's time for the CFPB to protect consumers and our economy, and take action to reduce and eliminate unnecessary banking fees. Regards,	$50-100

It's time for the CFPB to protect consumers and our economy, and take action to reduce and eliminate unnecessary banking fees. As an example, I had to open a business account in order to receive direct deposits from some of my clients. I typically don't keep a large balance in this account, and as a result, I am charged $10 per month when the balance falls below $100. It adds up. I was trying to avoid this very problem in the first place by using only a single personal account to keep my small, unincorporated freelance business simple. And recently, I was almost a victim of a scam perpetrated against freelancers. I caught it, but not before having deposited an advance payment from the "client". I notified the bank before I drafted funds from this account. They investigated, and found it was indeed a scam, and returned the check to the sender. I was then hit with a charge back fee. Seems to me I was then scammed by the bank. Regards, Charles Floyd	$50-100

1012	KATHY	SNYDER	Valley Center	CA	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, In the past year, I have paid $50 - 100 to Elevations Credit Union and USAA bank. Since virtually all transactions are computerized, all fees, and NSF fees in particular, should be much less than they are. Maybe they should also be tiered. I rarely have to pay these fees as I keep a close eye on my accounts. Occasional mistakes should not be punished the same as chronic abuse. These 'junk' fees are merely a way for banks to make more money off me and countless other bank customers. SS is my only income and comes on the 2nd or 3rd week of the month with certain automatic payments being withdrawn by exact dates that never coincide, sometimes causing an overdraft I have no control over. Also, my bank and others charge if I need cash and have to use an out of network ATM yet they give me a penny interest on an amount of over $1000 that I some months maintain till taxes or another large expense is due. 1184	Anna	Lawson	Albuquerque	NM	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, In the past year, I have paid about $150 to my former bank in Washington State. The fees are unfair because there was plenty of money in my savings account--all they had to do was move it to checking, and my account was set up to do that. Also, charging fees for electronic transfers is ridiculous; it takes about two minutes and a key tap or three, and is certainly not worth what is charged. 1227	Laura	McDowall	Mogadore	OH	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, In the past year, I have paid $100 - 200 Huntington Bank. When my autistic son opened an account, we specifically asked if he was required to maintain a certain balance in the account; what other things were required to avoid fees in the "free" account. Answer "nothing" the account is free. He was not aware that he should open the account statements sent in the mail (my bad, I should have explained this to him). After 9 months, I noticed the unopened stack off statements and showed him how to open the account statement and check it. Turns out they had been charging him $10 per month because he wasn't making enough transactions each month. He was depositing whatever money he received, but he didn't withdraw anything. I took him to the bank and spoke with the manager. She said he had to make 5 deposits or withdrawals each month to avoid the fee. I told her we had specifically asked and were told the account was free, and I asked them to refund the fees. Bank refused. We closed the account. These 'junk' fees are merely a way for banks to make more money off me and countless other bank customers. Their idea of a preferred savings account is with a minimum balance of $100,000 and offering 0.05% interest annually ($50). If the balance falls $.01 below that level, a $35 fee is charged monthly. This surcharge is levied every month. If you happen to be traveling for work and this occurs, there is no notification at all until you see the monthly statement. If you transfer money into the account the fee is still levied for that month. So you now are being charged for keeping your money deposited in their bank. It takes a matter of seconds for the computer in the bank to turn down a overdraft. Yet, my bank charges me $35 for those few seconds. That fee is far too steep for the amount of work that the computer does. In the meantime, every Bank of America has lines of people waiting and waiting, while 1 or 2 cashiers process the people in these lines. So, on top of the fees, we get no service, either. No wonder bankers are getting multi-million dollar salaries and payouts, while their customers and employees are left hanging in the wind and getting poorer. Please stop all of this nonsense. 1327	Erich	Benndorff	Ramona	CA	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, In the past year, I have paid $100 - 200 to Bank of America--if a bank prefers to eliminate small account (this was a seldom used checking account--minimum balance 1500.00, not interest bearing, and was being charged $12.00/month to 'maintain' the account) they should state that. In my opinion it's immoral to charge a 12.00 fee per month when the bank is using the money, even in a small account, to invest. Rather than suck the account dry, it would seem to be a more honorable practice for the bank to draw up a check once the account goes below the minimum amount and return it to the account holder with an explanation. These 'junk' fees are merely a way for banks to make more money off me and countless other bank customers. I'm not saying that overdraft fees should completely be removed but $35 per over-draft is outrageous. The fee that I think is the worst was agreed to as part of the SOX Act. This is the fee that they can charge if you take money out of your savings account even by making transfers over 6 times per month. It is my money why should I be charged for making transfers or just for using it. It is not the bank's money and it is not Congress' money. If I choose to keep my savings account high and transfer money to my checking to cover my checks and bills then why should I be penalized? It is especially egregious when the transfers are made electronically and banking personal is not involved -- I'm the one doing the work and they are not paying anyone to manage my transfers. These 'junk' fees are merely a way for banks to make more money off me and countless other bank customers. I am on social security disability so have a very low income. Some charges to credit card companies I have made on the day due but they say have come too late in the day. I have had some medical things going on and that is why i left payments to the due date. Some charges through the bank have been when money (checks) I deposited and withdrew some money at the same time they said the money wasn't available yet. These checks would have been stimulus checks from the government so they should be good right away I believe. The credit card companies are already making alot with their high interest rates and then to top it off your car insurance charges more, even though I have not had an accident or speeding ticket in over 30 years, seems if a rock from another vehicle hits your window they keep track of as against you which I've had a couple times in the last 10 years. The more a person makes the more they are protected, very hard to live on a limited income. Not to mention the medical bills I paid, didn't make enough to even begin to cover those when my medical conditions hit:(! These 'junk' fees are merely a way for banks to make more money off me and countless other bank customers. 1400	Teresa	Devine	Marfa	TX	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, In the past year, I have paid $100 - 200 to one of my two credit unions. I got hit with an NSF fee plus returned check charges because my credit union didn't overdraft on my savings. I have paid processing fees, ATM fees and more. For me, these fees are an annoyance. But a ton of these fees hit the Americans who can least afford to pay them. They further economic inequity and penalize people who live paycheck to paycheck. There is inherit racial and socioeconomic bias to most of these fees. These fees generally lack any nexus to the financial institution's cost to process them, especially since most bank transactions are not manual anymore. Digital processing doesn't involve the labor of yesteryear. Why are NSF fees more expensive than 20 years ago when labor WAS involved? Fees should be required to have a nexus. These 'junk' fees are a non-transparent way for banks to make more money from me and countless other bank customers. It's time for the CFPB to protect consumers and our economy, and take action to reduce and eliminate unnecessary banking fees. ATM fees are excessive in particular since the processing is automated. Account maintenance is completely automated with minimal "live" interaction. These fees should be reduced from $15/mo per account to $5/mo or less per account. Customers don't need to be paying for bank marketing through fees! IT maintenance and security costs banks money so a modest fee could be justified. Overdrafts made good within 5 business days should not incur a fee. However, long overdue overdrafts should carry a modest fee since everyone should keep their financial house in order and not "bounce checks" like the current administration in Washington! Convenience fees (i.e. ATM usage) which is processed automatically should not incur fees. Manually processed conveniences could incur a minimal fee since a bank employee's time is money. There should be no fees for manual teller deposits, account balances, etc. Online banking has reduced most need for manual processing, but some of the automated on line or telephone products are user unfriendly. Regards, R Burrow	$200-400

Needless to say, the Bank put almost all of those customers who had checking account into the extra fee version. When I found out about it, I made them return at least 6 ninths of those fees, after I threatened to expose their fraud by posting it on social media. I maintained the minimum balances when all accounts at the bank are considered, but due to complex rules simply moving funds from my kids' savings to mine caused them to start charging $10/mo per account. When I refinanced with PNC, I was charged several "junk" fees for some items, including an attorney review fee, when the attorney's client was the bank, not me. They may be able to contractually pass that fee on to me legally, but as all refi banks charge them to the customer, these are contracts of adhesion and cannot be avoided. As I am already paying the bank a profit in the form of interest, application fees, "processing fees" and other items, this seems to be overreach. These 'junk' fees are merely a way for banks to make more money off me and countless other bank customers. I can understand charging fees for overdrafts but at the same time I think 32 dollars per draft is very steep. It seems as if I can never get cleared from this as my income is limited. They are making quite a profit off elderly people such as myself. It's a very vicious cycle, and with prices rising in consumer goods, it's going to be an impossibility to clear this. 1778	Philip	Bowles	San Diego	CA	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, In the past year, I have paid more than $400 to Chase Bank - 3% of $14K sent overseas, deeply hidden and even denied, or stonewalled - "I'm not allowed to discuss that". This isn't really a junk fee, it is a systematic ripoff that is carefully concealed from the consumer. However, I compared the online exchange rate with the rate I was given, and the difference was 3.000% - no coincidence. I can provide details, as I pursued it for months with Chase (unsuccessfully). It is hard to believe that rich people cannot move money without avoiding such fees. I hope the CFPB will consider ending this shameful practice. Thank you for all you do. Regards, Philip Bowles	More than $400

1901	James	Weil	Fremont	CA	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, Financial institutions are trying to coerce customers to abandon paper statements; switch to electronic delivery, in order to increase profits is to not send statements in a timely manner to allow payment on time so that they can charge late fees and interest. I have been hit several times with this issue but managed to reverse it. There is an additional issue with electronic deliveries of statements. It is the assumption that the internet and wireless connections are always reliable which they are not, especially in emergency situations such as fires, floods, and earthquakes. Currently if such services go down the customer is still responsible for paying their statements on time, even if they cannot receive them or incurring interest and late fees. Regulations need to be created to create a balance between the institutions and the consumer for such events as with the institutions coercing customers to switch to electronic delivery without informing them that they are responsible for on-time payments even if services go down, including broken hardware, buggy updates, hacking, identity theft, power outages, etc., the consumer is currently totally responsible for late payments due to the loss of electronic services which they have no control over and which the financial institutions are promoting for the purpose of increasing their profits. US mail via the USPS is still the most reliable method of receiving statements. Regards, James Weil	Narrative Story
1902	Valerie	Shields	North Adams	MA	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, For a number of years, I have paid unfair fees to Bank of America. To avoid monthly service fees for my account, it reasonably requires a minimum purchase amount each month. But if there is a problem with a purchased item/service whereby the seller provides a credit/refund that is processed in a subsequent month, the bank back-charges me for the purchase month if the "new" total spent is under the minimum purchase amount. It's impossible for a consumer to anticipate the need for a credit/return nor the processing time, so it should be equally impossible for the bank to take advantage of this inevitable situation. This happens even when I exchange a same priced item for a different color/style, as the seller often refunds the initial purchase, then requires a new sale--often occurring in two different months. These 'junk' fees are merely a way for banks to make more money off me and countless other bank customers. 1905	Susan	Mottet	Portland	OR	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, I am concerned that banks are charging 'junk' fees merely as a way for banks to make more money off of bank customers, especially low -income communities, which skew toward marginalized groups due to current and past discrimination. We have even seen evidence of banks reordering when transactions come in, so that they can charge a NSF fee, simply to increase their profit. So a person who is trying to be financially responsible and put money in the bank before writing that check to pay a bill gets hit with a NSF fee that they can't afford, not because they didn't do the right thing but because banks can make money by reordering the timing of those transactions. If the banks are just trying to drive up profit, on the backs of the people who can least afford it, exacerbating poverty (with all of its attendant harms), on marginalized communities, and also reordering transactions, then they lose the privilege of being allowed to charge whatever fees they want. It's time for the CFPB to protect consumers and our economy, and take action to reduce and eliminate unnecessary banking fees. Regards, Susan Mottet	Narrative Story

Keeping balance of $500 is nearly impossible. Plus SSI Disability rules state account cannot have more than $2000 in cash. $5 may not seem like much to you but it is meaningful to someone whose income is very limited. This type of minimum balance fee penalizes the poorest among us. Banks say that these low balance accounts are not profitable. Yet US Bank profits set record highs in 2021, $279.1 billion in profits in 2021, up $132 billion compared with 2020. It is time to offer low income individuals a viable way to manage their finances without these predatory fees. Regards, Susan Tilley	Narrative Story

1908	Sandra	Wall	Lakewood	WA	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, I do NOT think fees for overdrafts, non-sufficient funds, and not maintaining a certain balance are unfair. Financial institutions should not have to bear responsibility for irresponsible or careless customers who cause the institutions extra expense and time to deal with those who do not manage their accounts according to the rules in place when they signed up to use the CONVENIENCE of SERVICES offered by the institutions. If not charged a financial penalty for overdrafts some people would create overdrafts whenever they felt like it. Also, there are a multitude of different types of bank accounts from which a person can choose in order to avoid fees for non-sufficient funds or for not maintaining a certain balance. People should do their homework in finding accounts which match their situation, and people should be held accountable when they write checks for which they do not have funds. Regarding the latter event, perhaps a first time mistake could be addressed by the financial institution with no fee involved, but repeated events should have financial consequences in the form of penalty fees. Regards, Sandra Wall	Narrative Story

1917	Ruth	Fink-Winter	Wheaton	IL	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, I think it is just wrong that banks charge consumers fees for items like paper statements ($3 a month) and can process transactions to deliberately maximize the number of overdraft fees (processing a large withdrawal, then several small ones, e.g.). I'm fortunate; I can afford to keep enough money in my checking account (which now pays zero interest) that I don't get hit with these fees. But I was young and poor once, and getting hit with a $40 fee for each overage, particularly if the banks play with transaction order in order to hit customers with multiple fees, makes a huge dent in a starving college student's budget. 1918	Mark	Minor	Lorena	TX	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, I understand the need to review fee structure at banks - but understanding that an overdraft is an unsecured loan the financial institution should be compensated for that loan. Of course, the financial institution could simply return all checks drawn on insufficient funds - but would that benefit the consumer. In addition, you should increase focus on property tax lien lenders who charge exorbitant fees and interest rates while taking a first lien on the property via their tax loan. In my opinion this is a much more serious area of abuse that needs immediate increased regulation. Regards, Mark Minor	Narrative Story

At the time, I was unemployed and looking for work. It was egregious that a company would penalize someone who was already struggling, making it harder to find employment while affording food and rent. What logic does a fee make when that fee adversely affects the future prospects of an account holder? Now, I have direct deposit for the account and a job and add money to the account. 1942	Lynnece	Gaines	Denver	CO	End Hidden Fees!	Dear Director Chopra, My stepmother has used Synchrony Bank's CareCredit card to pay medical and dental expenses for my father. When I learned that my stepmother's income had been severely reduced by my father's death on February 1, 2021, I offered to take over the CareCredit payments for her. She had been making the minimum payment, and I set up automatic monthly payments to continue doing so. Recently, I reviewed the details of her CareCredit card account, and was horrified to discover that every month Synchrony Bank was charging fees and interest that totaled more than the minimum payment. As a result, every month, the new balance was more than the previous month's balance despite her having made a payment. According to the December 20, 2021 statement, the previous balance was $6,974.66. The account was credited a payment of $227.00. In addition, the account was charged a fee of $103.62, and an interest charge of $160.16. The new balance was $7,011.44. The fees and interest charge totaled $263.78, $36.78 more than the payment, and increased her loan balance accordingly. At the beginning of 2021, the account balance was $6,188.15. During the next 12 months, payments totaling $2,622 were made. One purchase totaling $110 was made in July 2021. However, the account was assessed $3,335.29 in interest and "fees." As a result, the account balance at the end of the year was $7,011.44, nearly $1,000 more, despite a year's worth of payments and only one purchase. Synchrony is charging 26.99% annual percentage rate. I am not able to determine the reason for the additional "fees." Late fees are only $40; the account is on autopay, and paid on time.	Narrative Story

I have since changed banks of course but it the end they attempted to double our monthly fees from about $600/Month to roughly $1200/Month if I let them. I was up front with my account manager from the receipt of the notice and actually had them in my office on the date of inception. They of course guaranteed that they would handle this but put nothing in an email or writing. I was required to pay the clerk's office a $30 fine for a supposedly bad check and threatened with prosecution and a misdemeanor charge! The bank refused to reimburse me the penalty fee assessed by the clerk's office, but did "reactivate" my account so I can now have free access to my own money - as long as I make a transaction at least once every six months! I went into my branch in Texas and had the teller handle all of the calculations and transactions. For the next year I was in a constant battle with B of A. After many calls and visits to the bank, here's what happened: When my Texas account was closed, there was a very small amount of interest which the teller failed to account for. So they (B of A) reopened my account and credited the interest (less than one dollar). Then they immediately slapped me with a $10 monthly charge, because my newly opened checking account didn't have enough money in it to qualify as "free." THEN they had the audacity to hit me with a $35 overdraft fee, because my newly opened checking account didn't have enough money to cover the $10 monthly charge.
