Petition to the Department of Energy, submitted by Consumer Reports and 22,774 consumers:

Appliances should be more efficient, not less.

Urge the Department of Energy stop its efforts to roll back appliance efficiency standards

I urge you to withdraw all proposals that roll back appliance efficiency standards. American consumers saved over $100 billion on their energy bills in 2024 alone as a result of standards that have been implemented and continuously improved since 1987. The typical family in the US saved over $500 on their energy and water bills last year because of these standards.

An attack on appliance efficiency standards is an attack on consumers' wallets and utility bills. These standards enjoy wide, bipartisan consumer support – with 87% of Americans supporting minimum energy efficiency standards for appliances in a nationally representative March 2025 Consumer Reports survey. Rather than systematically weakening our existing standards, I urge the Department of Energy to engage with consumers and consumer advocacy organizations to strengthen appliance efficiency so consumers like me can save more money.
